THANKS FOR EVERY

Remember the day? You were bubbling with excitement—it was the first day of school and now you were a big shot. Still, it surely was comforting to have Mom there, just in case.

That first date—how long ago was that? That cowlick just wouldn't stay put, nor would any amount of powder hide that pimple on the tip of your nose. Then good ole Pop came through with the car keys and malt money.

Things had never looked so rosy as on Prom night. You were Prince Charming in your tux (Pop tied the tie), and the family car was all yours for the evening. How proud you were to give your Cinderella her corsage, even if Mom did have to pin it on.

You were on top of the world as you received your diploma, but thinking back you realized that it was Mom and Dad who had helped you reach this goal.

So, in appreciation of the help and understanding you have given us, Mom and Dad, we dedicate this book to you—our parents.

beautiful tepee on c.c.h.s. reservation

On April 1, 1950, construction began on Cahokia Commonfields High School. In September, 1951, the building was opened for use. That year everyone dodged wheelbarrows of cement and drank from garbage cans.

By the second year things were much calmer, almost natural. There was now a large gymnasium, good enough to please the most ardent athlete; the nineteenth-century bell was eliminated; a P.A. system simplified the making of announcements; shrubs added a finished look to the exterior; and two stone benches were placed in the inner court by the Class of 1953.

Continually improving, a football field and track were completed the third year, and bleachers were set up. Great care was taken in the planting of grass, and the F.H.A. set rosebushes in the court yard. Dark green plants adorned the planters in the front hall. In three years time Cahokia High School had seen great changes.

Mr. Knecht, head of the Comanches, should receive much honor and praise for his kindly and intelligent rule. One of Mr. Knecht's pet pastimes is gardening, and the Mrs. is proud of his "little acres." However, Mr. Knecht's greatest joy comes from hunting. He declares, "There's absolutely nothing like hunting quail."

An ardent golf fan, Mr. Malinsky has frequented the links since being bitten by the bug last summer. Less strenuous, but something he equally enjoys, is TV boxing and football. Mr. Malinsky this year became Assistant Principal of the Comanches.

Mr. William Knecht, Principal and Assistant Superintendent; Mr. William Malinsky, Assistant Principal and Athletic Director.

Mr. Aaron Brien, Superintendent.

Another chieftain, Mr. Rodemich, also likes hunting, fishing, and golfing. He was usually seen at any and all sports' events. Mr. Rodemich maintained his office off the Comanche grounds, but it was he who supervised the learning of all young braves and squaws.

Mr. Brien was not often seen by the tribe since he was usually hard at work in his private wigwam. However, he did emerge from his office to announce all home football games and to attend all athletic events. Mr. Brien was a great booster of the Cahokia teams. When off the Reservation, Mr. Brien likes to sit for hours in a duck blind (even on wintry days). He says it is fun!

Mr. Eugene Rodemich, Curriculum Co-ordinator.

girls keep tribal records; council rules

Miss McConnell, clerk of the supply room, sold school needs with a smile. Johann Upchurch was usually pecking away on the typewriter or answering a jangling telephone. Secretary, too, Mrs. Vogt was responsible for the PA system, and for some reason, had to blow into the microphone. Maybe it was dusty! Mrs. Bess counted the many rolls of money and kept the bills paid. All the girls played "ambulance" for the sick students.

The Board of Education provided District 187 with a modern high school. Each of these men has done his best to give the students an education for which they will later be thankful. The Cahochron is proud of the achievements of the Council — the Board of Education.

classes are really fun, especially when one of the girls tries to dissect a frog! Now a junior or a senior never has a dull moment: It's Chemistry or Physics where test tubes blow up, Advanced Math where rivers are measured, Co-Rec where anything from softball to the bunny-hop to Flying Dutchman is learned, or it's Secretarial Training where keys are punched and handles turned.

All the Comanches spend much of their time turning little dials that guard locker doors. The three magic numbers and the dial-turning procedure are forgotten by many a brave and squaw.

One of the favorite pastimes of the Comanches is sports. Those who don't take an active part apparently love to get larangytis, or so it would seem from the screams emitted at games. Pep rallies and assemblies bring relief to those who are bored with study. Other welcome breaks come with the monthly district meetings when the students are released for part of a day while their Elders discuss the problem of how to manage Indians without scalping them.

Comanches are kept busy with activities ranging from harmonious music to the noise of the pep club.

book learning

Some of the students present plays and participate in a Drama Club. F.T.A. offers such diversions as parties and substitute teaching for those who aspire to be teachers.

Crossed home plate and made a touchdown!

F.H.A. and G.A.A. keep the girls hopping from the kitchen to the basketball court. Quite a few braves and squaws still find time to worry about the Council Ring and Cahcch-ron. All braves who letter in some sport may join the "C" Club..

A great variety of subjects are taught at Cahokia. The students may prepare for their chosen occupations. If they are interested in office work, juniors take typing and shorthand; then, as seniors, they receive actual office training. Hopeful machinists or carpenters can take specialized courses in woodworking, metal working, or mechanical drawing. College-prep courses are offered for those students who are interested in entering college. Students may enroll for advance study in many specialized fields—science, mathematics, industrial arts, foreign languages, art, or music. History and English are required courses. Such courses as Homemaking, Social Studies, and Home Living emphasize home and community citizenship.

Every Comanche in District 187 should be grateful and proud of the opportunity he has to participate in the educational activities and learnings taking place at Cahokia Commonfields High School.

In future years when our Comanche moccasins have collected dust, we will recall—

LEONARD BOHANNON, JIM ADAMS, and BILL TALBOTT, playing their last season of football, were indisposed the final three games because of the flu bug and broken bones. Also active off the field, Leonard was Student Council President and played basketball. Jim excelled in track.

JUNE ANN REISS, JANET WHEATLEY, GAIL WEBER, and MARJORIE BECKMAN formed a giggling quartet. June, Janet, and Gail were members of the band and all four belonged to F.T.A. Marjorie was a permanent boarder in the Business Room.

HENRY RAINBOLT and TOM EADS headed a spirited jazz band at the bonfire for Sophomore Initiation. They almost melted their horns!

Usually seen together in the halls were BEVERLY AMMON and SHIRLEY KENT. They kept the typewriters company, too.

Those buzzin' cousins, GARY GROCE and CHARLES GROVES, otherwise "Toots" and "Chop," were real cut-ups. Gary was class president and played the "pigskin." Both fellows made their mark in basketball.

Probably the only senior cheerleader to be center on a football team was BILL BOLLINGER, remembered for his monkey-like leap on the field. A modern Pied Piper, he led all the students in rousing pep rallies.

Other members of Carlisle's "Super Tribe" were

RONNY GREGORY and TOM JEROME. "T. J." battled his lock every day of the year. Both guys played basketball. Casanova ALLAN HOLMES also played basketball.

BILL BUXTON gave his heart to a certain member of the junior class. Bill was on the football and basketball teams.

Although he didn't participate in football his senior year, BILL COLEMAN was another gridiron enthusiast.

DON MUSKOPF, RICHARD MATT, GUY EASTER, and GERALD "Windy" ROBINSON were head chefs in Home Living Class, and they ate their cooking!

Pals DAN WELCH and LARRY MUNDY were in the locker-fixing business.

FRANK DEPPONG, new to the tribe, and CHARLES DONAHUE were much alike. Frank thought the 20th century needed a monument. He must have planned to build it himself since he spent his fifth hour surveying. Girls were never able to catch Charles—he was outstanding in track and cross-country.

ART ENTEMAN was always recognized by the curls on his forehead, and he was the envy of his classmates with his red convertible.

One of the quiet kids that no one heard much about was MELVIN SCHARF. It was said that he made frequent trips to East St. Louis to see a certain somebody—girl, of course.

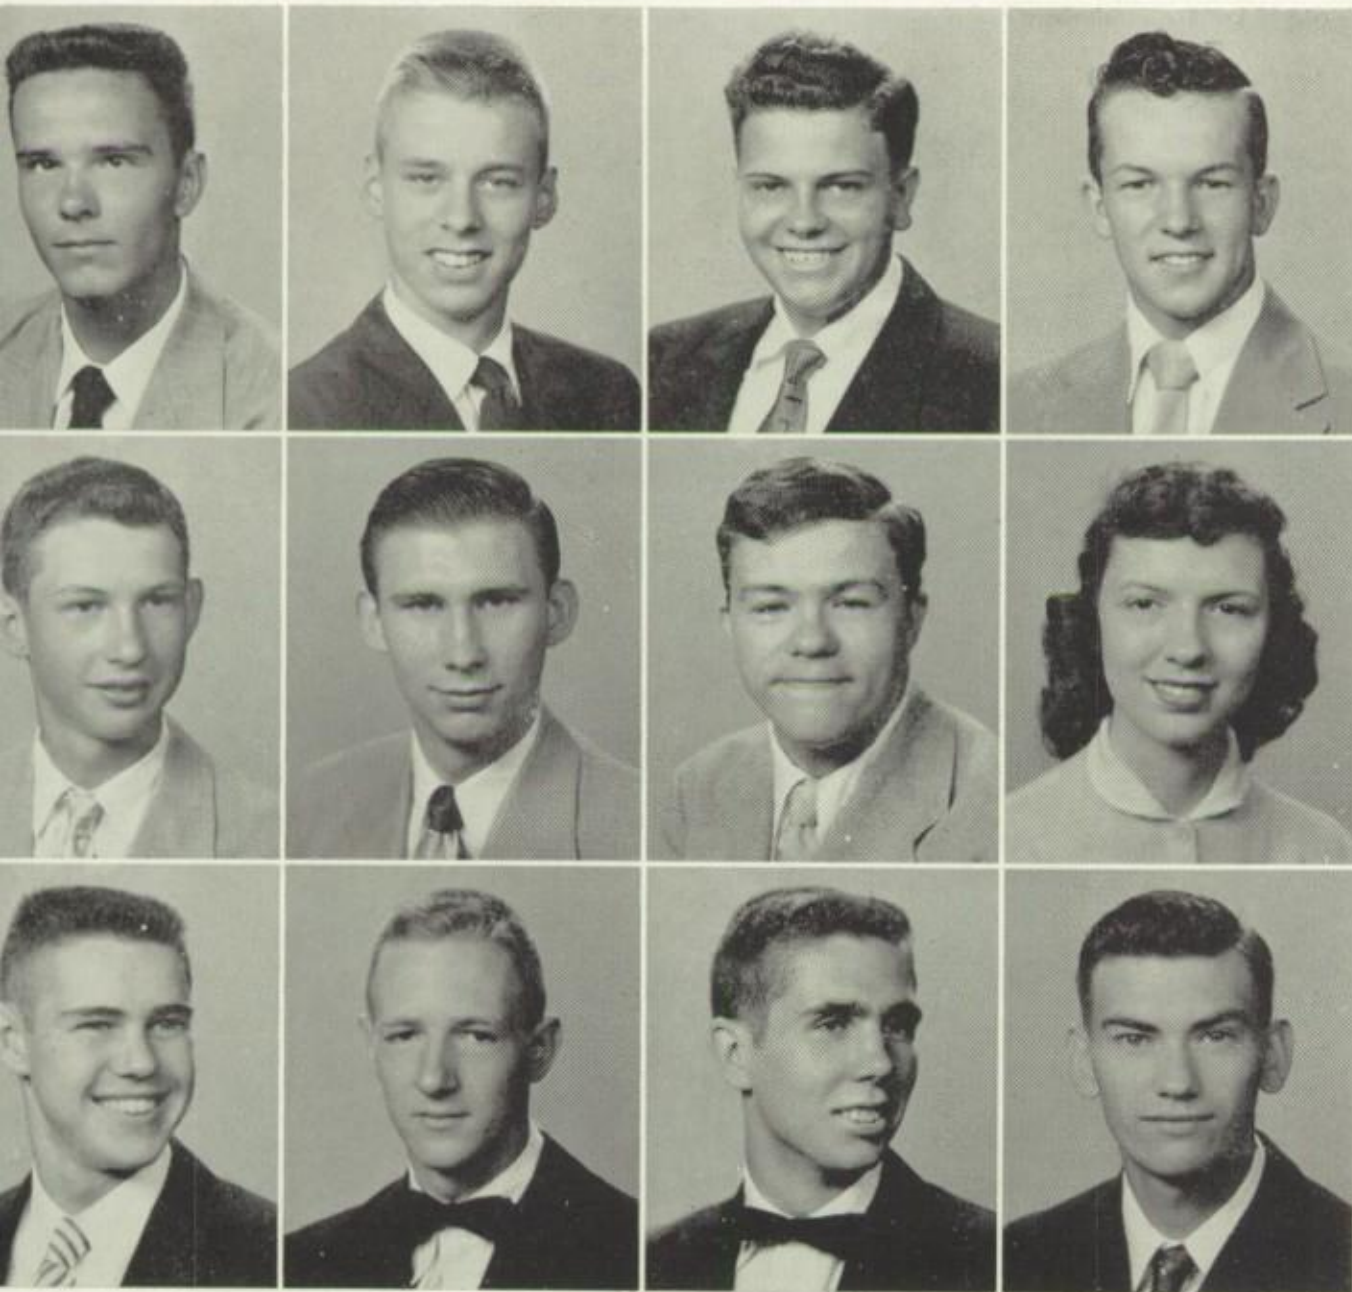

The whizzin' motorcycle kid, JOE THOMAS, was a Monsanto product. Joe also tooted a horn in the band.

A real conversationalist, FRANK FRY, was always interested in who's who and why.

Everyone expected SHIRLEE RIPPLINGER to cut her hair and be off to Fort Leonard Wood.

PAULINE FORNESS, SHIRLEY HOPEWELL, and BETTY SCHNITTGER were members of F.S.A.

(Future Secretaries of America.) Shirley also planned a change of last name.

ERMA STEVENS, Miss Gressel's protege, was headed for the role of secretary to the President — or his boss!

One Comanche moccasin (red, of course) had the name "Dagmar" across the toe. This moccasin belonged to CAROLE ANDREWS, a band member and a fan at all games.

Not so quiet among the girls was LOIS COBB. Her drum beat sounded through the air at each home game.

Three seniors that were on the list of "Quiet but OK" were EARL BAIRETT, CHESTER BROOKS, better known as Froggie, and BOB HOFFMAN.

Two JERRY'S — KRONK and BYRD — had three things in common — their names, their witches, and their watches. Jerry Kronk and his trombone were a famous pair.

JUSTINE JONES, band member and an asset to the annual, was managing editor of the Cahochron as a junior and co-editor her senior year. Moreover, she served the Student Council as secretary for two years.

The basketball manager, JOE ERNDLE, could always be depended upon to blush; hence, his nickname, "Rosy."

CLIFFORD HEIL'S moccasins went to almost all sport events; he was sports' editor of the Council Ring. He participated in cross-country, also.

A sugar 'n spice cookie, NANCY SINGLETARY, was always on the run. Usually seen with her were IVA JEAN MORRIS, MARILYN TYLER, and SHIRLEY RACHELL. Iva Jean's ambition was to be an art teacher. Marilyn was co-editor of the Cahochron and did most of the writing. She was a prom attendant, and Shirley was football attendant.

The chief future homemaker, BRIDGET MONTERUSSO, will for all time be remembered for the one time she was speechless.

JO ANNE KERN was a well-balanced, typical senior. She worked well, had fun in play, and even studied.

DON FLEMING, a late arrival in the Comanche tribe, was a welcome addition to the senior class and quickly proved his worth.

JOYCE MILLER betrayed her tribe for a Comanche warrior from the '52 tribe.

JEWELL HAYES was the warrior who collected tardy and absence slips every day. Two girls who were noted for their earrings were JEANETTE JEROME and PEGGY HOFFMAN.

RODGER LANE and CONLEY WILSON, the cats of Cahokia, were noted for their bright pink Mr. B's and their pegged pants.

EDDIE "Tarzan" RANGE was noted for his ability to climb the rope in gym class.

ELAINE "Tootie" STEIN was G.A.A.'s favorite chauffeur. She was prom attendant her junior year and was escorted by an ordinary Joe.

DARRELL RODEMICH was known as the "Golden-toed flying Dutchman." He played four years of football to earn this nickname. TOM RUSHING, another four-year man, was known as the "Mad Rushin."

The mad physicist RONALD ZARZECK was known for his extra-curricular activity—that of office boy.

EDITH TRIPP will be remembered for her writings. She was also known to have spent many hours grooming her hair.

WILLIAM JOHNSON, better known as Junior, hailed from the Southland. Still waters must run deep, for he was a charter member of the National Honor Society.

These were the Warriors of 1954. Some of them will be remembered as outstanding in sports; others, in music; and still others, for their ability to get along with others.

Mr. Knecht will always remember a certain senior leading crowds of students through the halls with his, "Are you all going to the game tonight?" Mr. Logan is sure to remember most of the Warriors in his American History classes. They spent hours in his classes seniors.' After becoming acquainted with the teachers and making new friends and really knowing our way around, we were transferred in our sophomore year to a tan brick building. In this building we overlooked small obstacles such as no floors, no doors, no books, and no quiet (the building was being constructed around us as we sat studying). We also underwent another drastic change — we left the role of the Tiger to become Comanche Indians!

(mainly sleeping) learning who did what, when, and where. Mr. Hinson had the Warriors when they first came to Cahokia. Biology was something unnecessary, most of them thought, and Mr. Hinson enjoyed many hours of argument in an effort to convince the Warriors otherwise. Mr. Hinson also enjoyed the squeamish look the girls had when asked to dissect a fish. And so it goes — all the Elders of the tribe will undoubtedly remember this group of Warriors.

The Seniors own log would probably read like this: "We entered a red brick building with a pack of green freshies, full of hearsay on what happens to kids like us. Strangely enough, even though we were to be Tigers, we could not muster a very ferocious attitude while ducking around corners to avoid 'those

We found our junior year to be a busy one. We had to plan the prom and banquet given in honor of the seniors. It was our job to sell candy and cokes at the games in order to raise money for this prom and banquet. In December, we gave a Happy Holiday Dance — the first dress-up affair in the new gym.

With three hectic yet enjoyable years behind us, we came to our senior year and found it was the busiest of all. Perhaps it was the busiest because we wanted to cram everything into our last year at Cahokia High.

Our senior classes gave us much to write about. Our Social Studies class gave a Carlisle Dance and the unforgettable "Twirp Twirl" — the dance in which the girls got to ask their men, and pay for them, too! Social Studies sponsored these affairs to get money for an Alumni Reunion held at Homecoming time.

In English class we had some very heated debates. We never did decide whether or not Rosalind Russell knew anything about men. Shakespeare was also near and dear to us—Clifford Heil was even driven to writing poetry about Macbeth.

We regretfully left our high-school sports and played our last games. A homecoming victory made a pleasant going-out in football, however.

The last pages of the senior log are full of memos of a whirlwind of activities: banquet and prom programs, announcements, calling cards, final-exam papers (those with A's), and pictures from the last outing, Senior Skip Day.

In worn moccasins, the seniors finished up their final tasks at Cahokia High. They were graduated from the Comanche Reservation on the night of May 28. The last page of their log now contains a diploma and a tassel from their mortarboards.

The Junior maidens and braves spent the year in a variety of ways —

They worked many hours selling refreshments at home football and basketball games, and they worked many hours planning the Prom.

At times they were exasperated when combinations on lockers refused to work, or wrong books were grabbed in haste, or arrows zoomed high over the targets.

They found the hours long when they pecked on the new typewriters, wrote strange curlicues called shorthand (which took longer), or studied the "King's English." However, there was one "relaxing" class — American History — in which they caught up on their daydreaming. Instead of visualizing Thomas Jefferson, it was common practice to think of the new maiden or brave in study hall.

The hours were shortest and jolliest, they discovered, when they were at dances or in the halls relating the latest or even in classes—for the acquiring of knowledge was really the greatest thrill of all.

The Sophomores started school with one important date in mind — that date was September 30, Initiation Day. They took lots of kidding and some students were actually frightened, but the day proved very successful. The many rules and various obligations had been learned thoroughly. affair were the bonfire (in which Skip Raeber's legs were made famous) and the Initiation Hop. The sophomores were very proud that they had joined the tribe as full-fledged Comanche Scouts.

Now that they were official high-school students, the Scouts could enjoy the privilege of attending any dance or game with the upperclassmen. There were the many clubs that they were now in the position to join. They could be in senior-high band. They work at such trivial matters as Subjects. Their favorite, of course, was Biology. Turning on the gas and using the experimental basins and faucets for drinking water were about the two most important things learned by the students.

Even though they had to arise an hour earlier because they were in senior high, the sophomore scouts didn't mind. They lived a happy year with wonderful things always popping.

were quite thrilled with their first big dance — the Homecoming Dance.

One of the funniest sophomore days came when the girls were initiated into G.A.A. There were many different costumes, and many people's finances were lessened after having their pockets drained by the new G.A.A.'ers.

For almost every ninth grader, the ninth grade has been a place of sentiment, romance, and adventure this whole wonderful year.

It was sentimental because the autumn bonfires last September marked the beginning of their last year in Junior High, a time they would always remember.

It was romantic, too, because lots of the ninth graders had their first important school-dance date, or had their first "real" crush.

And it was certainly adventurous, because most of them got a sample of some of the "cool" activities they will enjoy during their three years in Senior High.

The members of the Cahochron staff found they had many difficult decisions to make and much hard work to do. But the end result, a book of their own choice, was one of which they were immensely proud.

Each Tuesday the staff gathered with popcorn, candy, and other such mental fortifiers, to mull over headlines, identify pictures, spell names, write "exciting" stories, and try to meet or better still, beat, deadlines. Naturally, all was not smooth sailing, but differences (padded cover—no, hard!—navy blue, of course;—no capitals??—let's be different?) were soon ironed out with the "majority rules" procedure. The end result of every meeting and every difference was always a unanimous and cheerful "all-right-ey."

So here it is—your Cahochron. Read it—compare it—enjoy it—take it home to show to your folks—put it away to be brought out another day to be smiled at. Let it be a reminder of that senior, junior, sophomore, or junior-high year at Cahokia.

parlez-vous français

If 50-million Frenchmen can do it, we can, too. Thus, the French Club was organized with Mrs. Hutton as sponsor. Its purposes were to interest students in French, to keep informed those who had studied French, and to further the understanding of the ways and customs of the French people. The Club sponsored a Theater Party; held a farewell breakfast for Tom Hurst; had tea at Specks, a century-old restaurant; went to see the Van Gogh paintings; and presented a play in St. Louis.

no miss brooks or mr. peepers, but give them time

Some of the Comanches are surveying the teaching field — and enjoying it! The Future Teachers of America has been one of Cahokia's rapidly growing clubs.

To get a view of other schools, the future teachers of Cahokia and of East St. Louis exchanged visits. On the social side, the F.T.A.'ers have "more fun than anybody." The future teachers rendered a real service through their part-time teaching.

let's do the bunny hop

The G.A.A., one of Cahokia's largest and most active clubs, gave Comanche maidens a chance to prove their athletic worth. Comanche Hops, bowling, archery, and team activities kept the girls hopping. Most of the planning and committee work was done during the noon hours. The loyal G.A.A.'ers willingly gave up their noon-hour minutes for their club.

Intramural teams participated in various tournaments—basketball, volleyball, ping pong, and softball. Points were tallied and the winning team had the honor of having its name placed on the G.A.A. plaque.

Besides athletic activities and Comanche Hops, the G.A.A. sponsored their annual Box Social, a Sadie Hawkins Dance (for which a queen was chosen), several Parents' Nights, and many hikes with wiener roasts. The G.A.A., with the help of a few boys, also sponsored a very successful co-recreational play night in March. In May, the G.A.A. invited eight schools to participate in a play day at Cahokia.

Those Comanches with a flair for acting found their club at Cahokia — the Drama Club. Mrs. Black and Mrs. Hutton coached these budding actors and actresses. The Drama Club presented a one-act play, "Drop Dead," which featured an all-boy cast. The French Club presented a serious play (also one-act), "Lord's Prayer," along with the Drama Club presentation. The plays were presented in the Little Theater.

Some young Indian maidens on the Cahokia Reservation bake, sew, cook, and sweep. They are acquiring the "know-how" on keeping a good Indian tepee. They have as their title, The Future Homemakers of America.

The Future Homemakers had as their first project of the year the World Christmas Festival. Janet Kronk was chairman of this event in which Christmas gifts were collected and sent overseas to needy countries. Their next project came with Homecoming when they served refreshments for that affair. Jo Ann Lorenze was chairman and, with the cooperation of the home-making classes, the F.H.A. girls served punch and sheetcake to the students and "alums." Nancy Wheeler was chairman of the annual winter dance which was the biggest and most looked-forward-to F.H.A. event. It was complete with a Queen and Attendants. Daddy-Date-Night was a big happening — especially for the Fathers of all F.H.A. girls. All year long F.H.A. girls sold candy to the students.

In Mexico City there is a group of girls who know all about Cahokia High School. For this, F.H.A. is responsible. During the Christmas Holidays Mrs. Frazier and her girls, with the help of a few boys, entertained guests from South of the Border.

Cahokia's newly formed chapter of National Honor Society consists of sixteen members, seven seniors and nine juniors. In order to be eligible for election, a student must be in at least the second semester of his junior year, must have attended Cahokia for a full semester, must have maintained a B average in senior high school, and must be judged as outstanding by the faculty on the basis of character, leadership, and service. If a student at anytime after his election falls below the basic requirement for the Society, he is placed on probation for nine weeks. At the end of this period if he has not regained his former standing, he is dropped from NHS.

No one of the present members is perfect in all the qualities required. There are other students with higher scholastic averages who were not elected, there are others with better records of service or leadership who were not elected. These boys and girls are the best all-around students our school has. They have a heavy responsibility to carry, for as the pledge they took when they were inducted reads in part:

"On my honor . . . I will do my best to represent the four ideals of . . . Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service . . . I will remember that the primary purpose of school is getting an education . . . I will serve my school without thought of personal glory."

The Council Ring is the regular device for sending up smoke signals at CCHS. Every Comanche looks forward to his blue-and-white newspaper.

Editor Perry Taylor, assisted by Norma Buhs, works out the assignment sheet and does the dummy. Rupert Potter is staff photographer. Among the feature writers are Clifford Heil, Frank Deppong, Bridget Monterusso, Jo Ann Hutson, and Mary Ellen Mayer. Bob Edmondson assisted the sponsors—Mr. Sluder and Miss Huffman—with rewrite work.

After attending the journ convention at Carbondale, Clifford Heil revamped the sports page and came up with a greatly improved section. Staff members also attended the Illinois State High School Press Association convention at the University of Illinois.

Major accomplishment of the year was an eight-page Christmas issue. The staff was deeply gratified to find someone to do original art work and cartooning. Donald Fleming's art efforts added a vital new touch to the paper.

Members of the staff set up criteria for awarding the journalism gold pin and bronze key.

Each year a group of students are elected to be the leaders of the school. These leaders form a governing body called the Student Council. The Student Council is one of the first stopping places for teachers and students whenever help or advice is needed. A Student Council member may be asked to help in a charity drive, to assist a teacher in forming a well-organized dance, or to work with the administrators in developing a smooth, synchronized student body. All extra-curricular activities and dates for activities are cleared through the Student Council.

The democratic training which members derive from this organization will work toward the betterment of each of them as trusted citizens.

Someoccasins walk in allegro time with a staccato beat — those moccasins belong to the members of the music clubs at Cahokia High. On the Cahokia Reservation, there is a top-notch Band, a Mixed Chorus, a Girls' Glee Club, and a Girls' Octette. All these musical organizations were very active this year.

The band took to the field to furnish half-time entertainment for the fans at the home football games. High-stepping June Ann Reiss led a snappy band in various marching formations. The marching band added much to the games and was the prime factor in the Homecoming parade. The band also helped a neighbor, Parks Air College, by performing at Webster and Fontbonne Colleges. At Open House, the band featured a Combo.

After the football season, the band took up its position in the pigeon roost in the gymnasium. From this high vantage point, the band members furnished peppy music for all the home basketball games.

In September the Junior-High Student Council was organized and officers were elected. The Council met during the lunch hour.

Near the end of October the Student Council members sponsored a curiosity drive. In November plans were started for a Christmas party. Because of the careful, advance planning, the party was highly successful. The evening's entertainment started with everyone assembled in the gymnasium. A Christmas play was presented by the Drama Club, and Mr. Lee led the group in singing carols. After this, the seventh graders played games in the gym, the eighth graders played games in the study hall, and the ninth graders danced in the dining room. The party ended with the exchange of gifts.

The Student Council worked with the senior high Council in sponsoring the March of Dimes campaign.

The Junior High Student Council served as a clearing house for the problems that came up in junior high.

The Junior High chapter of the Future Homemakers of America serves as a stepping stone to the senior chapter, and service is its main purpose. This year's calendar included picnics, a homecoming float, daddy-date-night, and a mother-daughter tea. Junior High F.H.A. helped buy a seeing-eye dog for a teenager.

The Junior High Drama Club presented three plays during the year. Mr. Mayer was the director for these plays.

The Junior High Newspaper Club, headed by Miss Helen Huffman, met during the noon hour. The students first studied good news stories and then they learned how to write noteworthy news. Many of their articles were published in the Council Ring.

The Junior High Annual Staff met once a week to plan the junior-high pages in the Cahochron. They became acquainted with the procedures required in publishing a yearbook. They wrote some of the junior-high copy.

four hups and three downs

The Cahokia Comanches football team had the best season so far of their young career. They opened the season with a bang, beating St. Charles 39-0. A stiff Sparta team gave the Comanches some trouble, but Sparta was conquered 14-0. Bethalto was smothered by the Comanches 37-7.

Roxana handed the Comanches their first defeat, 14-7, in what was classed as the most thrilling game of the year. The Comanches couldn't recover in time and lost to Madison 20-7. Halloween proved a jinx when Dupu overpowered the Comanches 12-0.

In the Homecoming game, the Comanches proved their worth and gave the Alumni something to shout about by downing Laboure 14-6.

Mr. David Carlisle took over the head coach job this year with assistance from Mr. Gus Heath. The team won four games and lost three. Top honors went to Bill Bollinger and Gary Groce.

This was the team that ran up the first winning season for CCHS.

cheerleaders, captains and coaches are the comanches' big C's

Dave Carlisle, Carl Dillow, Jim Froman, Gus Heath, Frank Lorton, and Arthur Wolfe are the coaches of the Comanche tribe, and Bill Malinsky is big chief of all the sports. These men teach that sportsmanship is to be valued above all else. As a result, the Comanches are clean fighters and good sports.

The captains of the sports are another group of big C's on the Comanche Reservation. To show that brains and brawn do work together, there is Bill (Tyrone) Bollinger, captain of this year's gridiron squad. On the field one could always see Bill bolstering the team's spirit with his trade mark, a wild jump in the air. This is one Comanche who will go far.

Charlie (Ezzard) Groves and Gary (Bevo) Groce, the big guns during Cahokia's cage season, shared honors as basketball co-captains. Charlie with his set shots and Gary with his drive and jump shots, sparked the cagers throughout the season. Gary and Charlie are two great guys!

Another big man on the C.C.H.S. campus is Jim Adams, captain of this year's track team. Besides being good in sports, Jim is also tops in his grades. Jim is another Comanche the Reservation is proud to claim.

Of course, a lot of credit for the Comanche spirit can be attributed to this year's cheerleaders — Nancy Baur, Jean Bollinger, Margie Phillips, Joan Pratte, and Margie DeBourge. These gals did a great job of cheerleading.

The Cahokia Comanches Baseball Team, piloted by Coach Bill Malinsky, won 5 and lost 4, captured 2nd place in the Conference, and in tournament play won 2 and lost 1. All boys lettered, with Gary Groce voted best. The most thrilling game was the clash with E. St. Louis in the sub-district tournament. The Comanches led 4 to 3 at the end of the sixth. A bad seventh inning earned East Side 4 runs and eliminated Cahokia.

Cahokia won over Roxana 4-3; O'Fallon 1-0; Highland 5-4; Greenville 7-3; Bethalto 6-3; Freeburg 2-0 (Tournament); Dupu 2-1 (Tournament). They lost games to Assumption 7-3 and 10-5; Madison 8-1; Freeburg 9-2; East Side 8-4 (Tournament).

Although the Comanche Runners, coached by Mr. Frank Lorton, lacked a well-balanced team, they gave their followers much to cheer about. Captain Charles "Spike" Donahue led the way for the inexperienced team. Spike placed 1st in meets with Highland, Roxana, and Bethalto, and placed 2nd in triangle meets with Belleville-Dupo and Madison-Dupo. He placed 3rd in the Conference, 2nd in the Troy Invitational, and 6th in the District, setting a new record for a Cahokia cross-country runner (10:12.8 — previously 10:30.6 held by Gene Vogt). The team won 2, lost 3, placed 6th in the Troy Invitational and 10th at

The 1953 Track Team won Cahokia High School's first trophy by placing 3rd in the Conference. Gus Herderhorst, who ran the quarter in 53.7, qualified for State. Jerry Wallace missed State by three-tenths of a second. He placed 3rd in the District. The relay team did exceptionally well—their best time was 3:39. Coached by Charles "Gus" Heath, the Comanches had a good year.

In the games they played exceptionally hard but were unable to win. The honorary team captains were Charles Mardirosian and

The junior high track teams had limited success last season. Though their track strength laid mainly in field events, they also showed power in the high jump, pole vault, and the one-half mile. The main

The Cahokia Comanches, coached by Charles "Gus" Heath, completed the regular season with an 11-won, 14-lost record. Although they did not win the conference crown, the Comanches played several thrilling ballgames. They upset Greenville who had earlier defeated them by 10 points, and also Roxana, who had beaten the Comanches by 20 points. Some of the most thrilling games were played in the Dupo Tourney. There the Comanches won a trophy for third place by defeating Madison, the conference champs, in one of the Comanches' brilliant victories.

Charley Groves was the team's leading scorer, compiling 480 points for a 19.2 average per game. Gary Groce had a 14.4 average to follow Charley in the scoring department.

The Comanches were eliminated in the regional in what was "the game of the year." Playing in a double overtime, the Dupo team, on their fourth try, dropped the ball through the hoop, thus putting an end to the basketball season for the Comanches.

Appearing at the home basketball games this year were two young maidens and two braves. Between the junior varsity and varsity games, the fighting spirit of the Comanches was dramatized in the dances of these four Indians. Mrs. Logan was the learned elder who taught the intricate Indian steps.

Five junior girls made up the senior-high cheerleading squad this year. These girls worked hard to get student support for the Comanche teams.

After the football season, the cheerleaders discarded their blue skirts and white V-neck sweaters for more appropriate Indian attire. The new uniforms consisted of short, white leather skirts, fringed leather boleros, blue blouses, white moccasins, and feathered headbands. The G.A.A. bought the moccasins for the cheerleaders and big chief Mr. Sachs made the beaded headbands. Miss Mosby sponsored the girls.

The cheerleaders worked many long, hard hours, perfecting their routines. They improved the old yells and introduced many new ones.

PEP CLUB OFFICERS: Joe Thomas, president; Janet Bollinger, secretary. (Vice-president Elaine Stein not present for picture.)

Boys wearing their blue letter sweaters are usually seen ushering at basketball games, concerts, and various school programs. These boys are members of the C Club whose main purpose is to help promote any activity sponsored by the school. C Club boys put forth their best efforts to serve as good hosts for visiting schools, students, and adults.

The only requirement to belong to C Club is to have earned a letter in a sport.

To promote good fellowship, to help create school spirit, to further an interest in athletics, to volunteer any kind of service to the school when needed — these are the aims of the Pep Club. Pep Club members saw to it that the teams were adequately supported.

comanche maidens lead war cries

The seventh and eighth grade cheerleaders had a full year of good cheering. They especially worked hard at the Gillespie Lightweight Tournament and the Jerseyville Heavyweight Tournament. These cheerleaders had the full backing of their classmates.

The ninth grade cheerleaders attended all the games and cheered their very best. Their outfits consisted of corduroy skirts with navy V-neck sweaters. They, with five substitute cheerleaders, were in charge of a cheerleading club. The cheerleaders were especially glad to be able to cheer for the faculty in the senior versus faculty basketball game.

Mrs. Logan was in charge of the junior-high cheerleaders.

Queen Barbara Boswell

drifting through a musical paradise

Cahokia's annual Prom saw the gymnasium transformed into a Musical Paradise with colored lights pouring over glittering stars. Queen Barbara Boswell was escorted to a white throne by Charles Groves. Preceding the Queen were attendants Marilyn Tyler, escorted by Richard Parker; Erma Stevens, escorted by Bill Bollinger; Shirlee Ripplinger, escorted by Don Ramelot; and Elaine Stein, escorted by Joe Vecera. All the attendants wore ballerina-length formals and carried bouquets of red and pink carnations. Heralding the coming of the Queen, Master Mike Sluder escorted Miss Terry Kennedy down the white aisle.

At eleven o'clock retiring queen, Patty Ruebel Hartline, crowned Barbara with a white velvet crown trimmed in rhinestones. The coronation was climaxed by the Queen's Dance, "Because of You," played by Johnny Polzin's orchestra.

The perfect topping to a football victory came with the 1953 Homecoming Dance. Jean Bollinger, the Homecoming Queen, was escorted to the throne by Gary Groce and crowned by retiring queen Jane Hill Halasey. Queen Jean wore a scarlet velvet dress with a scoop neckline and carried a bouquet of large yellow chrysanthemums.

Following the retiring queen were attendants Margie Phillips, escorted by Bill Bollinger; Joan Pratte, escorted by Jim Adams; Shirley Rachell, escorted by Bill Talbott; and Charlotte Thompson, escorted by Bill Buxton. Margie wore a white dress with a blue net overskirt, Joan wore black and pink, Shirley wore lavender, and Charlotte wore blue velvet.

Punch and football cakes were served. The decorations carried out a football theme. Gene Babbit's Band supplied the music and played Jean's request dance, "Tenderly."

waltzing through a fairyland of snow

Soon after semester exams, the F.H.A. transformed the gym into a land of "Roses in the Snow." The gym was decorated with red and white crepe paper and large bouquets of roses were hanging on the white background of the dance floor.

The music was played by John Fabick and his orchestra. The climax of the evening came with the crowning of the Queen of Roses, Cara Lee Kirkland. Cara Lee was escorted to the throne by Joe Mallery. The new queen was crowned by retiring queen, Charlotte Thompson, who was escorted by Bill Buxton.

Queen Cara Lee's attendants were the Maid of Honor, Marian Lorenze, escorted by Kenneth Eugea; Doris McDaniels, escorted by Lloyd Eggleston; Carol Jakowski, escorted by Mike Wors; and Marian Kasten, escorted by John Borders.

Rupert Potter, Janet Wheatley, Clifford Heil

Three students to receive awards this year were Rupert Potter, Janet Wheatley, and Cliff Heil.

Rupert, a sophomore, received two awards for oratory. First, he won the school "Voice of Democracy" contest. For this contest, he wrote an original speech. After being chosen to represent Cahokia in the county contest, Rupert gave his talk over the radio. Rupert received his second honor when he entered the district oratorical contest. Here his speech won third place which gave him the opportunity to compete in the sectional contest.

Janet, a senior, was chosen to receive the Daughters of the American Revolution award. This award is given to senior girls on the basis of truthfulness, integrity, personality, punctuality, and loyalty to American ideals.

Clifford, another senior, won ten dollars by writing a theme on tuberculosis. Cliff's theme was entered in the county tuberculosis contest.

In February nine new members were received in the National Honor Society. These nine members were chosen by the teachers and the charter members.

has anybody seen a janitor?

Three groups of elders on the Comanche Reservation deserve praise for jobs well done.

Each day the busdrivers bring all the Comanches to Cahokia for the day. More often than not, they are out again at night bringing students to a ballgame, party, or dance.

Each day the cooks serve lunches to the hungry

Comanches. The cooks are most popular on "hot dog or hamburger days."

Each day the custodians are seen about the Reservation cleaning floors, washing windows, putting out sod, or working on the grounds. Keeping the building in tiptop shape is a never ceasing job.
